Paula says ...

It is our privilege to have Sue Ogilvie with us this Sunday morning. Sue has been on staff at Windsor Park Baptist Church on Auckland's Northshore, since 2003 as Pastor of Church Care, leading the pastoral care team and training staff and volunteers. She's passionate about developing networks and partnerships and has many years of experience providing holistic support for both the practical and spiritual needs of the community.

She is also the Manager of the Windsor Park LifeCare Trust which provides a range of services including CAP, counselling, pregnancy support, support for single parents and legal advice – and is excited about opportunities to provide holistic support for those in their local community.

She's been married to Jamie (born and raised in Gisborne) – 44yrs and they have 5 adult children and 10 grandchildren. She's an active relaxer and enjoys getting out on the water, paddle-boarding and walking on the beach (especially Wainui Beach in the summer) to keep her life balanced.

Sue has been with us for a couple of training events this last week: equipping us to CARE well for both each other within our church family, and in our community. Thanks to all those who were able to join. If you weren't able to come, talk to someone that did about what they learnt and discovered.

We hope this will further equip us to respond appropriately and confidently to a wide range of Pastoral Care needs, as 'Jesus with skin on', in a way that protects safety and dignity and honours the care modelled by Jesus Christ.

Our Elders also met this week, and one of the things we discussed was how to improve our communication to you, as our church family, about Leadership discussions and decisions. In response we decided we will give an update – perhaps monthly, about the things we are working on and considering, thoughts about Vision and future direction and other important updates. I will do the first of these in next week's newsletter.

Finally, I have been reminded this week of the vital importance of our prayer ministry teams, our intercessors and all who pray for our Church. Every Sunday before church, a small group meet in the Prayer Room from 9:30am to pray. We would love you to join.

Blessings, Paula
